

Press release

HackYourFuture is growing!

Four years after getting the project off the ground in Copenhagen, we have finally been able to establish a second chapter in Aarhus. This move allows us to reach more beneficiaries across all of Denmark. Previously, the weekly train ride to Copenhagen had been an obstacle for many Jutland-based applicants and volunteers and we can finally offer local classes.

This is great news as it will allow us to help talents from all over Denmark to fulfill their potential and start a career in Web Development - where all hands on deck are needed urgently.

To reflect our new, national reach we are renaming our social media channels to the more appropriate “HackYourFuture Denmark” and we will continue to share amazing success stories and interesting tech talks and projects from our community.

What’s changing? Nothing really. Just that we will share updates from both of our Danish locations (and hopefully reach many more people!)
